

Purina Mills EQUESTRIAN ACADEMY

NEW SERIES TO BEGIN IN JANUARY, 2008

The 7th Annual Purina Mills Equestrian Academy, offering excellent equine education to all levels of horse enthusiasts in the Midwest is now taking registrations. The four session series will be held on Tuesday evenings, January 29 through February 19 from 7 pm to 9 pm. We are very excited to be holding the series at the Roy Frey Western Lifestyles store, Topeka, KS again this year.

The course will target amateurs and professionals in the horse industry, 16 years of age and older, who want to further their education in equine science, as well as become more familiar with current topics in the horse industry. Certificates will be presented to the attendees who attend all four sessions.

Professionals in the equine industry, including veterinarians from the Kansas State Veterinary Teaching College, will present each session of the Equestrian Academy. Subjects covered last year included Equine Nutrition, Caring for Wounds, Infectious Diseases in the Horse, Equine Dentistry, Performance Horse Lameness, Equine Behavior and Training, and Equine Reproduction. The 2008 session topics will be announced later.

To enroll in the Equestrian Academy course, please send the accompanying registration form with payment to the address on the form.
