

TROY LERWILL - WILD CHILD

Rodeo Clown

4-Time PRCA Comedy Act of the Year

Featured at American Royal Oct. 24-27

Troy Lerwill brings a new kind of excitement to rodeo thrilling spectators with his daring feats as a rodeo bullfighter and barrel man, and leaving them breathless, as well, with his spectacular motorcycle riding.

Like many others in his profession, Troy has a strong rodeo background. His father, Lynn, was a team roper, and his mother, Penny, is a former rodeo queen. Growing up in Utah, Troy received his first horse when he was just four years old. But by age 10, he had chosen another kind of mount for himself – a motorcycle. He entered his first race at 12. At age 18 he was the top man in professional motor cross in Utah. In 1992, he opened his own motor bike retail and repair shop in his hometown of Payson, UT.

Troy started his bullfighting career in 1994, then joined the PRCA in 1997 and became a barrel man too. During this time he began working to include his cycling skills in his rodeo act. "I told myself that somehow it had to be possible to jump a Dodge pickup truck and a Bloomer trailer with my dirt bike," he said.

Combining all of his unique skills, Troy Lerwill already has an impressive rodeo career.

Among his accomplishments, he can list: 2002, 2003, 2005 and 2006 PRCA Comedy Act of the Year. The American Royal and the Prairie Circuit Finals are excited to bring the top specialty act in rodeo to Kansas City October 24-27, 2007.

His crazy act is no way mild.

Look out! He's here!

It's Troy Lerwill, "The Wild Child!"
