

United States Cavalry Association
2007 National Cavalry Competition
September 20-24, 2007 - Fort Riley, KS

Located on Fort Riley Kansas, the association is dedicated to preservation of the cavalry tradition and houses an extensive library on the history of the Horse Cavalry. In addition:

The U.S. Cavalry Association (USCA) will be conducting its 2007 National Cavalry Competition (NCC) September 20-24, 2007 at Fort Riley, KS.

Previous NCC's were held at Fort Sill, OK (2002); Fort Worth Stockyards, TX (2003); Fort Riley, KS (2004); Fort Robinson State Park, NE (2005); and Fort Knox, KY (2006).

The individual competition consists of Equitation on the flat, Jumping, Mounted Saber, Mounted Pistol (both over fences), Bugle Calls, Authenticity of rider and equipment, as well as Platoon Drill for groups.

There are three levels for Equitation and Jumping with ribbons and plaques awarded to top three competitors in each division.

The Directors' Cup Trophy will be awarded to the high point rider.

The Pegasus Memorial Plaque for the horse that best represents the Cavalry Horse.

The NCC is open to all who are interested in promoting the Association's purpose of keeping the Cavalry tradition and spirit alive. The USCA encourages participation by mounted military color guards, cavalry re-enactors, memorial mounted units, mounted police, and others prepared to compete in period or modern uniform. The competition is open to units and individual competitors.

The NCC is held in conjunction with the Annual Bivouac (meeting) of the U.S. Cavalry Association. The Bivouac includes social events at which competitors have an opportunity to meet military veterans, including some who served in the old Horse Cavalry, and other association members, and to participate in traditional cavalry ceremonies.

The public is invited, in fact encouraged, to attend the event and witness history in action.

The USCA is requesting assistance of the Regional Equestrian community in promoting the event and help in the way of manpower to conduct the event next September.
